MASCAC ANNOUNCES 2007 WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL ALL-CONFERENCE TEAMS

The Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) announced its 2007 All-MASCAC women's volleyball teams as voted upon by each of the conference's six head coaches.

Bridgewater State senior middle hitter Kelsey Collasius (Rochester, MA) earned both Player of the Year and First Team honors, while Worcester State freshman middle blocker Angel Clarke (Shrewsbury, MA) was named both Rookie of the Year and Second Team All-MASCAC.

Westfield State's Fred Glanville was named MASCAC Coach of the Year by his peers after leading the Owls to their first regular season conference crown in 20 years. Under Glanville, Westfield State also ended Bridgewater State's 12-year reign as MASCAC champion. The Owls' 3-0 victory over the Bears on October 23 snapped Bridgewater State's 114-match conference win streak that dated back to 1994.
